Health board approves needle exchange

A possible needle and syringe exchange program in Lee County took a step toward happening last Thursday when the Lee County Board of Health approved the establishment of such a program in the county.

The approval does not mean that the local health department would be involved in the exchange of needles and syringes, it does, however, permit the existence of such a program.

District Health Department Director Karen Cooper said the health department, the University of Kentucky or Kentucky River Community Care could be the provider and exchange point.

Cooper said the program is the result of legislation passed by the Kentucky General Assembly earlier this year.

It is designed to reduce the chances of intravenous drug users from contracting and spreading HIV and Hepatitis C.

She cited the small community of Austin, IN, which she said is smaller than Beattyville, struggling with some 200 HIV patients caused by contaminated needles and or syringes. The majority of them, she said, also have Hepatitis C.

For the program to be made available locally, both the Lee County Fiscal Court and the Beattyville City Council must approve it.

Also during the meeting, Lee County Administrator Vivian Smith said she believes that the health center will move into its new offices across the street in August.

She said the downstairs renovation is virtually completed, and work is being done upstairs.

Smith said a ribbon cutting and open house would be scheduled.

The building is the former Peoples Exchange Bank.

The board agreed to keep the tax rate at five percent.

Approval was given to the health center's 2015-16 budget. It shows $336,650 in anticipated revenue and $224,487 in expenditures.

At the end of the rainbow

Following a Tuesday evening storm this rainbow appeared over Beattyville. It appears the pot of gold might be in County Attorney Tom Hollon's office.

Fiscal Court struggles with awarding bid

Members of the Lee County Fiscal Court struggled last Thursday to decide who should get a slip removal job.

County Emergency Management Director Eugene Barrett opened three bids for the removal and repair of a slip on Brush Creek Road in the northeastern part of Lee Couty.

AWI's bid of $11,000 stated it was to: "Remove slip back to slate rock on hill. Not removing any slate rock that isn't loose. Haul material to our designated site. Not to exceed one mile. Total labor and equipment cost: $11,000."

King-Crete Drilling entered a bid of $25,000. It said: "25,000 for removal of

Steel driving men

King-Crete Drilling was hard at work Monday drilling steel on Cressmont Road. Storms earlier this year caused the roadway to break and slip. The break is one of approximately 40 in the county, according to Lee County Emergency Management Director Eugene Barrett.

Ruptured spleen cause of inmate's death

The preliminary cause of the July 4 death of jail inmate Ricky Combs was hypovolemic shock, or a ruptured spleen, according to Lee County Deputy Coroner Ronnie Dickerson.

Dickerson said the state medical examiner's office in Frankfort is still investigating the case. He said toxicology and microscopic work must be completed.

Combs, 43 of Breathitt County, was in the Three Forks Regional Jail on a charge of receiving stolen property.

On the Saturday of his death, Combs reported to jail authorities that he was sick at his stomach. He was taken from his cell to the booking area, Jail Maj. Keith Combs told The Beattyville Enterprise. That was at 2:45 p. m.

Maj. Combs said the officers took Rick Combs' blood pressure and found it to be high. They called the jail nurse who advised them to call an ambulance.

Maj. Combs said the ambulance was called at 5:55 p. m. and arrived at 6:20 p. m.

Deputy Coroner Dickerson took issue with that timeline.

He told the newspaper this past Tuesday that the ambulance was called at 6:05; was dispatched at 6:06; and was enroute at 6:09. Dickerson said the ambulance arrived at the jail at 6:15. He also said that the inmate had complained of chest pains.

He said Ricky Combs "was in full code" when the ambulance crew arrived and checked him. They began CPR and called for a backup crew at 6:25.

The crew put the patient in the ambulance and headed toward the Irvine hospital, working on him as they went.

Dickerson said the crew followed procedure by stopping at the intersection of KY 498 and KY 52 West to call for the coroner.

Dickerson pronounced Ricky Combs dead at 7:10 p.m.

In addition to the medical examiner's office, the death is being investigated by the Kentucky State Police.

Ricky Combs had been in jail since May 15.

Enrollment continues decline

As work is being done at the Lee County Elementary School, registration in Lee County Schools has dropped to 950.

Director of Pupil Personnel Ray Shuler told the Lee County Board of Education Tuesday that there are 46 fewer students enrolled in the county's schools now than one month ago.

However, he said he believes that more will enroll before school starts.

Shuler, who is also in charge of buildings and grounds, reported that three rooms have been set aside at Beattyville Elementary for kindergarten students. He said those students would have access to both the gym and the playground.

Jobs meeting to be held

Beattyville Mayor John Smith told members of the city council Monday night that he, County Judge/Executive Steve Mays and Economic Director Dedra Brandenburg would be meeting this week with representatives from an agency to help with job placement and training for displaced workers from the closed Lee Adjustment Center.

Smith said U. S. Sen. Mitch McConnell's office had put them in touch with Eastern Kentucky Workforce Solutions from Hazard.

The meeting, he said, was to be this Wednesday (July 15).

Council Member Mitch Cornelius asked what the city could do to offer incentives for businesses to locate here

Smith said the city could do something with utilities, but it is the state that offers tax incentive packages.

Also during Monday's regular monthly meeting, Smith shared the city's end-of-fiscal-year's financials.

The General Fund ended $47,865 in the black, with

Trump energizes the GOP's base but gives the party establishment heartburn

Submitted by H. B. Elkins

Donald Trump is not going to be the Republican nominee for president. That's all but certain. But his presence in the GOP primary is certainly making things interesting.

Trump's entry into the race has energized much of the party's base of conservative voters, who are tired of the party's leaders and establishment pandering to liberal interests, especially on the subject of illegal immigration. But to the powers that be, Trump is a nightmare because he is challenging the party's hierarchy on a matter where the leaders and their constituency are not on the same page.

By and large, conservatives oppose illegal immigration. They want the nation's borders secured and illegal aliens prosecuted, and if possible, deported. They are tired of seeing jobs taken away from American citizens by illegals who will work for under-the-table payments. They see the national security threat posed by the flood of people who cross the border illegally. They also recognize that there is a process for immigrants to come here legally, and they want that process honored. They cringe at any mention of amnesty for illegal immigrants already in the country.

On the other hand, the party's establishment and its big donors turn a blind eye to the problem. They don't mind the influx of cheap labor. If they can get by with paying illegals less than the minimum wage, they're all for that. They don't want to lose their existing labor force, so they favor a system by which people already in the country illegally can get to stay.

Donald Trump is challenging their positions and making them uncomfortable. They don't want to have to defend their support for "comprehensive immigration reform," which is code for "let the illegals stay." Therefore, there have been calls for Trump to tone down his rhetoric and an insistence that he not be allowed to participate in any presidential debates, the first of which is scheduled for next month. They point to all the outreach they've been trying to do to court the Hispanic vote, and they fear that Trump will undo all their efforts. It's interesting that one candidate who hasn't criticized Trump, Ted Cruz, has Hispanic lineage.

No one, other than an illegal alien, should take any offense at what Trump said. He wasn't addressing those who have immigrated here lawfully, have all proper documentation, and aren't breaking any laws. The GOP establishment acts so fearful that Trump will chase Hispanics away from the Republican Party. Don't they listen when those who came here legally and went through the process as prescribed in law express outrage and resentment at those who came illegally?

Because Trump expressed a strong opinion on a subject most politicians from both parties would rather avoid, he's suffered some business backlash. His response has been a thing of beauty. When NASCAR announced that it would not hold its season-ending awards banquet at a Trump property because of pressure from the sponsor of its truck racing series, Trump rubbed NASCAR's nose in it. He said that he would simply keep their sizeable deposit for the use of his facility and then rent it out to someone else and make even more money in the process.

Trump isn't the ideal Republican candidate. While he may be causing headaches for the establishment and delighting the party's conservative base in the process, there are significant weaknesses in his candidacy. While he's certainly not on the list of candidates for whom I wouldn't vote under any circumstance (right now Rand Paul, Jeb Bush, Lindsey Graham and Chris Christie are the primary occupants of that slate), and he's not among my favorites (Ted Cruz is head and shoulders above everyone else on that list), I'd certainly have to give strong consideration to him should he survive the primary process.

But that's not likely. The party hierarchy and the establishment will be gunning for him. They all seem to be gravitating toward Bush, but perhaps this will be the year the Republicans nominate a true conservative after the failures of moderate-to-liberal candidates in the last two presidential elections. If John McCain and Mitt Romney couldn't win, why should anyone think Jeb Bush can?

In the meantime, it will be fun to sit back and watch Trump make the GOP establishment squirm. It's time they got the message that the party doesn't want to be led from the top down, but they want the party's leaders to reflect the grassroots sentiment. So far, Trump has tapped into that populist sentiment, and the entertainment value is priceless.

What We Believe About Marriage Community Christian Church Beattyville, KY 41311

We believe that every person must be afforded compassion, love, kindness, respect, and dignity. (Mark 12:28-31; Luke 6:31.) Hateful and harassing behavior or attitudes directed toward any individual are to be repudiated and are not in accord with Scripture nor the doctrines of Community Christian Church.

We believe that God wonderfully and undeniably creates each person as male or female. These two distinct, complementary genders together reflect the image and nature of God. (Gen 1:26-27.) Rejection of one's biological sex is a rejection of the image of God within that person.

We believe that the term "marriage" has only one meaning: the uniting of one man and one woman in a single, exclusive union, as delineated in Scripture. (Gen 2:18-25.)

We believe that God intends sexual intimacy to occur only between a man and a woman who are married to each other. (1 Cor 6:18; 7:2-5; Heb 13:4.)

We believe that God has commanded that no intimate sexual activity be engaged in outside of a marriage between a man and a woman.

We believe that any form of sexual immorality is sinful and offensive to God. (Matt 15:18-20; 1 Cor 6:9-10.)

We believe that in order to preserve the function and integrity of Community Christian Church as the local Body of Christ, and to provide a biblical role model to our members and the community, it is imperative that all persons employed by Community Christian Church in any capacity, or who serve as volunteers, agree to and abide by this Statement on Marriage, Gender, and Sexuality. (Matt 5:16; Phil 2:14-16; 1 Thess 5:22.)

We believe that God offers redemption and restoration to all who confess and forsake their sin, seeking His mercy and forgiveness through Jesus Christ. (Acts 3:19-21; Rom 10:9-10; 1 Cor 6:9-11.)

PREDICTING MYOPIA IN CHILDREN

Myopia (nearsightedness) affects one in three Americans between ages 12 and 54, and its incidence seems to be increasing. To gain a better understanding of this common refractive error, researchers recently studied 4,500 children. On the basis of examination of their annual eye exams, it was found that children tend to be slightly farsighted in first grade, and those who are less farsighted (+0.75 diopters) at this age, often become myopic (-0.75 diopters or worse) later. Using these parameters, researchers found they could predict a child's likelihood at age six of becoming near sighted at age 13. Because a general eye exam in a pediatrician's office does not tend to be this precise, a visit to the ophthalmologist is recommended.

We provide comprehensive eye care for both children and adults. At KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE, we are dedicated to providing exceptional care with a personal touch and treat all our patients with care and respect. We're located at 540 Jett Drive, where we are committed to making your visit to our office as comfortable and convenient an experience as possible. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call 606-666-9393. We specialize in "EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES."

P.S. While it has been generally assumed that doing too much close work (reading, etc.) is the primary cause of nearsightedness, recent research points to lack of exposure to natural sunlight as the most likely cause.

KSP Warns of Telephone Scam

The Kentucky State Police, Richmond Post has been notified that scammers are using the KSP Post 7 telephone number in an attempt to scam some central Kentucky residents.

The attempted scam begins when a caller replaces their number with the KSP Post 7 telephone number, 859-623-2404, and calls the unsuspecting person. The caller then tells them that the Kentucky State Police has a warrant for their arrest because they owe the IRS money. The caller then demands an immediate payment over the phone to avoid being arrested. Fortunately, there have not been any reports of scammers collecting any funds, but KSP has received multiple calls from people that were targeted by the scam artists.

The Kentucky State Police would like to remind people that we do not call and collect funds, or threaten arrest for unpaid taxes.

To help as a guide, below are the "Top 10 Tip-offs to a Rip-off".

1.) High pressure sales or frequent calls are signs that it's a scam.
2.) If the caller demands an immediate decision, it's likely a rip-off.
3.) People requesting a credit or debit card or any banking account information.
4.) If the caller offers to send someone to your home or to overnight something.
5.) Something for free is usually a reason to be suspicious.
6.) Unresponsive to questions or too quick to answer by cutting you off.
7.) An investment without a risk.
8.) Will not provide written information or references.
9.) Not registered with the Attorney General's Office.
10.) If it sounds too good to be true, it often is.

Should anyone receive these calls or has questions or concerns, they are encouraged to contact the Kentucky Office of the Attorney General at 502-696-5300, the Kentucky State Police, or their local police department.

A different view

By Betty Crabtree

What a gracious and loving Heavenly Father we have! In reading II Peter 2 and 3, I thought, "Written long ago but as if it was written today!"

Peter tells the Christians to hold your mind in a state of undistracted attention, to keep in mind what the prophet said and our Master and Savior that was passed on by the apostles.

First off, you need to know that in the last days, mockers are going to have a heyday. Reducing everything to the level of their puny feelings, they'll mock, "So what's happened to the promise of his (Jesus) Coming?

Our ancestors are dead and buried, and everything's going on just as it has from the first day of creation. Nothing's changed." (They conveniently forget the past.)

Don't overlook the obvious here, friends. With God, one day is as good as a thousand years, a thousand years as a day. God isn't late with his promise... He is restraining himself on account of you, holding back the End because he doesn't want anyone lost. He's giving everyone space and time to change.

But when the Day of God's Judgment does come, it will be unannounced, like a thief. Since everything here might well be gone tomorrow, do you see how essential it is to live a holy life?

So, my dear friends, since this is what you have to look forward to, do your very best to be found living at your best, in purity and peace. Interpret our Master's patient restraint for what it is: salvation. (The Message Bible)

Teen leaders work hard

The "Teens in Leadership Program" know as (TILP), is a program developed at Cumberland Mountain Outreach in 2007, to give preteens/teens positive characterbuildingactivities to develop leadership skills.

Mandy Williamson, Gracie Spencer, Cindy and David Evanoff (directors) were in the program this year.

Within the years after this program, only a handful of young adults have made bad life choices. They strive to be law abiding citizens, and to show concern for others. The secret to the success rate is twofold: 1. Instill in the youth that they are valuable and loved; what they think, say, and do matters. 2. In addition they are learning how to be people of good character. Keep the youth away from bad influences, as well as teaching them to be honest leaders in our community.

The youth commit to meeting one day a week while in school for a garden program, 3 days of training for internship June 1-3, then on June 8-10 creating and performing a 3 day kid's camp on their own, 4 weeks of hosting and assisting church teams in the summer, they are CMO representatives at town events, and school programs throughout the year.

The American flag at the beginning of town hill was one of the (TILP'S) projects. We were at the 4th of July fireworks offering free body art. We will be at the Readifest helping youth services. We will also be hosting Miss Lee County beauty pageant. You can find us at the fair offering pony rides for $5, we will see you at trick-or-treat on Main Street, and the Woolly Worm festival, the last event something we have done every year is a Christmas celebration. This year it will be Dec. 19, at Cumberland Mountain Outreach.

PLAYING GAMES

By Billy Davis

As kids we like to play doctor, house, etc. I guess we were getting ready for the real thing.

I had a friend at that time; we loved to play Tarzan. I remember there was quite a bit of tree climbing. I also remember the girl, while visiting our home, said, "Mrs. Davis don't you think I ought to be the mother?" Being the mother was the big thing.

I don't know what has happened, but I have not seen any Tarzan movies on T.V. in a long time. Tarzan was displayed as a strong male role model.

Now they have been mainly replaced by "R" rated shows and movies. Not only have they been replaced by these shows, but also by very shallow and meaningless productions.

No wonder we do not find an abundance of young people who seem to desire, and be directed in a good path for their lives.

Back to our original thought. While we have played as youth, let us not carry this over into adulthood by "play church."

I don't know exactly what this means, but they say it can be done. Guess we all need to run a check on what is going on with us.

4-H Day Camp & Project Day

By Glenna Coleman, CEA for 4-H Youth Development

4-H Arts Camp

The Lee County 4-H Arts Camp was June 23-25th at the Lee County Extension Service (257 Industrial Park Rd). Nine youth participated in the three day camp this year and completed two clay sculptures, one wire sculpture, a canvas painting, several black and white drawings, and a group project combining the art of dance and painting! The Lee County Extension Office would like to thank Sarah Thorpe for teaching these projects for this year's camp. Several projects were state fair eligible and will be judged later this month to determine whose art will be the county representative in this year's state fair.

If you are between the ages of 9 and 18 and would like to enter your art for a chance to go to the state fair drop your project off at the Lee County Extension Office before July 17th to be judged! State fair eligible projects are canvas painting, black and white drawing, color drawing, as well as several photography categories. State Fair projects MUST have been created by the youth within the last year to qualify, no "kits" are allowed, original art work only! Contact the Lee County Extension Office for more details. Educational programs of Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

4-H Scrapbooking & No Sew Pillow Project Day

A Scrapbooking and No Sew Pillow Project Day was held at the Lee County Extension Office on July 2nd. Youth completed both a No Sew Pillow Project as well as several scrapbooking pages during this time. Pictured are Maggie Johnson, Allison Raines, and Emily Lutes with their project day projects. Educational programs of Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Splat!

Throughout her career as an aviator, Ruth Law set many records. She also performed many feats, including dropping what was supposed to be a baseball from 525 feet in the air.

After learning that Gabby Street had caught a ball dropped from the Washington Monument, baseball manager Wilbert Robinson decided he could do better. On March 13, 1915, Ruth Law flew high above spring training in Daytona Beach and prepared to drop a ball to Robinson.

Law looked for the ball but couldn't find it. She had left it in her hotel room! Law scrambled to find a replacement, came up with a grapefruit and dropped it. The grapefruit knocked Robinson to the ground and splattered across his arm. He mistook the juice for blood and didn't stop yelping until his team laughed and he realized he had caught a grapefruit!

'Bid' from Front

slip."

The $17,500 bid from Mudcat Construction said: "This bid is too (sic) include the equipment, trucks, and labor to remove this slip to a location nearby. It is too (sic) include the removal of the trees to a line above the slip so as to take weight of said trees off the slip. The slip will be removed to stable soil or rock. There will be a ditch put back along the side of the road to the appropriate grade. The area will be seeded and mulched once graded. The blacktop will be swept clean with a mechanical broom once all the loose material has been removed. Mudcat has all the appropriate insurances including Workman's Compensation and General Liability as well as Commercial Truck Insurance. All our drivers have CDL's and are trained for highway driving." It goes on the give some history of the business.

Barrett told the court members that FEMA, which is paying for the work, requires that it be completed before school starts early in August. He also said that the successful bidder must sign a contract.

County Judge/Executive Steve Mays said that the court needed to go with the low bidder.

Magistrate Carl Ross said the all of the work described in Mudcat's bid must be done. "Can't leave nothing undone," Ross said.

He also said that each contractor should write down what they are going to do.

Magistrate Everett Lee Marshall suggested that the matter be tabled to let Barrett go over the bids with the representative from FEMA. (Barrett said that representative was to be in town this past Tuesday.)

The court then went on to the next item on the agenda, awarding a bid for various breaks on roads around the county.

AWI submitted a bid of $37.72 per foot.

Hinkle Environmental Services' bid had prices for different parts of a job including drilling railroad rails, cribbing, excavation, #2 stone backfill and shoulder stone. There was no per foot bid.

King-Crete's bid was $29.99 per foot.

Marshall, again, suggested tabling the matter until Barrett could advise as to which bid was the best.

Barrett said that the county has traditionally done such projects by the foot.

Magistrate Tim Brandenburg then made the motion that the bid go to the lowest bidder – King-Crete.

The court agreed.

After the court approved claims and transfers, Mays brought the Brush Creek project back.

He had County Finance Officer Pearl Spencer read the bids again.

"To me you have to accept the low bid," Mays said.

Magistrate Dean Noe said he liked the way Mudcat worded its bid.

Gary King of King-Crete said that Donnie Best of Mudcat had done more to explain what was to be done than either he or the other bidder.

Best then said that the place to take the material for dumping is "quite a bit more than one mile" from the site.

Archie Wathen of AWI said the location is within a mile.

The court then accepted AWI's bid.

Brandenburg then said, "All work in the future should be bid out and bid out fairly."

Also during the court's regular monthly meeting. the only bid for two new ambulances was opened.

AEV Ambulances of Corbin submitted a bid of $81,106 for each.

Ambulance Service Director Joe Broadwell said that the service spends about $8,000 a month on repairs, and believed that spending $2,000 a month for two new ones would be better.

Spencer said she believes she could beat the three percent interest rate offered with the purchase.

The court approved the bid, contingent on Mays and Spencer coming up with a financing plan.

Mays noted that the court has received a copy of the Three Forks Regional Jail's 2015-16 Budget.

The major sources of revenue in the $2,503,520 budget are for housing state prisoners - $1,300,000; Breathitt County inmates - $280,000; Lee County - $230,000; Wolfe County - $280,000; Owsley County - $150,000; and from other counties - $165,000.

Major expenses are: payroll - $1,267,620; bond principle - $240,000; liability insurance - $145,000; utilities - $145,000; bond interest - $130,000; and food - $150,000.

In other business, the court approved the sheriff's 2014 tax settlement.

All employees were rehired in their current positions at their current salaries.

Chester Best was hired as a full time solid waste employee at $8.50 an hour.

Danny Pelfrey was hired as a full time solid waste laborer at $8.50 an hour.

Jason Shelton was changed to full time road laborer at $8.50 an hour.

William Thacker was changed to full time road equipment operator at $10 an hour.

Ronald Mayse received a .50 cent pay increase to now $9.65 an hour.

Harold Shouse also received a .50 cent increase to now $11.50 an hour.

Kent Creech's .50 cent pay increase raised his rate to $12.50 an hour.

The contract with Dr. James Noble as ambulance medical director was renewed.

only the Police Department going over budget because of overtime.

Garbage recorded a positive of $74,624.

Sewer was in the black by $98,134.

Water, however, recorded a negative of $155,294.

The council agreed to sell two small plots along the KY 52 Bypass to the state for a sidewalk, guttering and curbing project.

Approval was given for a $95,995 short-term loan from Peoples Exchange Bank to pay for an upgrade of repeater systems at 911 Dispatch.

The work has already been completed by RCS Communications, and the city will be paid back in full by a grant from Homeland Security.

The council agreed to a request from the Community Christian Church to close part of Main Street on August 1 for a Big Blue Back to School Bash. The closure will be from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m.

A resolution for Beattyville Housing to apply for a Community Development Block Grant was approved.

The council agreed to give $500 to the museum for a wiring project requested by Bob Smith.

Mayor Smith said he believes Phase 3 of the Streetscape Project will probably be put out for bids in August or September.

He also reported that the police department is down to three officers, and they are working 12 hour shifts. Several candidates have applied for the two open positions.

'Schools' from Front

He said parents who are going to drive their children to Beattyville Elementary are going to be urged to bring them to the back of the building.

Open House at Beattyville Elementary is to be July 20 from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Shuler said he hopes to have an Open House at Lee County Elementary on August 3. That is a tentative date.

Blanton Coates of Codell Construction suggested that asphalt be applied at the new parking lot at Lee County Elementary. The board agreed.

"We're in great shape for when you start school," Coates said of the work stage at the school.

He said work is about a week or so behind schedule, but he expects that to speed up when the new addition is under roof.

The board approved a pay application for work completed at the school in the amount of $198,649.

Finance Officer Zina Gibson told the board that she expects carry over from the 2014-15 Fiscal Year to the 2015-15 FY should be approximately $550,000.

She said that is more than she had expected.

Gibson is usually conservative in her budgeting.

Superintendent Dr. James Evans, Jr., reported that 2014 Lee County High School graduate James Kash has been elected to serve at the 2015-16 Kentucky FFA vice president.

He also reported that Lee County FBLA students placed second in nationals.

Evans said that Lee County achieved top 10 percent among Kentucky's public high schools/area technology centers and career & technology centers in college and career readiness rankings.

The Kentucky School Board Association has presented the district with a Kids First Advocacy Award.

Opening day activities for all Lee County staff are to be in the high school gym on August 3.

Evans reported the retirements of Glenna Cummins and Irene Brandenburg.

To replace Cummins, who wore many hats in the district office, the board approved the position of director of district-wide programs.

Evans said it would be advertised immediately. The position requires a principal certification.
